BOARD

Inferno 72 ~70°F

QUIVER

Sharp Eye Inferno 72 Clean, punchy groundswell on a steep reef left with offshore wind. This is exactly what the Inferno is for.

Anvil twin · for the soft Drive drain at midday

TW log · too much juice for it today

'IKE · ONE THING TO REMEMBER

Watch the gauge, not just the table.

Tide tables are predictions. Today the real water at Scripps is about a foot higher than the table, so a reef that likes up to 5.5 ft runs out of room an hour earlier than the numbers say. When a Coastal Flood Advisory is up, trust the live gauge and go early.

WHERE IT'S WORKING

★ Little Point CALL

Top of the scorecard at 0.98. SSW groundswell (46258 SwH 5.2 ft, 202–206°) is right in its window, LJAC1 has E 6 kt offshore, and the tide is rising through the middle. The catch: the gauge read 4.4 ft at 6:54a, about a foot over the table, so it hits the 5.5 ft ceiling around 8:10a. Paddle out by 7:15 and take the best hour of the week.

2 PB Drive ALSO

Score 0.86, also fine at dawn on the same offshore wind if the Little Point lineup is packed. Sets to 7 ft are over its comfort band, so expect some closeouts, and it goes over its own tide ceiling around 8:30a.

3 Calumet SOFT

Score 0.84 on swell, but it wants a lower tide and this one is flooding toward 6.7 ft actual. Pass.

4 Tourmaline SOFT

Score 0.77. Too full on this high for the cobble, and it will be mushy. Pass.

5 PB north of the pier SOFT

Score 0.72. The SSW angle mostly misses the pier wedge, so it is smaller and less organized than Drive.

- Skip · PB Point (0.58) is too full. The Cliffs (Garbage, Abs, Luscomb's) want a lower tide than this flooded high and get it only in the afternoon onshore. OB is the same story. Scripps and Blacks are not local, and nothing there beats Little Point at dawn. SKIP

DRAG THE TIDE

7:00a 3.5 ft tide E ~4 kt · NWS GO · Little Point 3–6 ft, sets 7 (SRF)

L 2.1 @ 4:13a · H 5.7 @ 10:33a · L 0.1 @ 5:47p · obs 4.4 @ 6:54a

Little Point, 7 to about 8:10a, on the Inferno 72. The table has L 2.1@4:13a rising to H 5.7@10:33a, but the gauge read 4.41 ft at 6:54a against about 3.4 predicted, so it is running roughly a foot over the table under the Coastal Flood Advisory (through 2p today). That pushes the reef past its 5.5 ft ceiling around 8:10a, and the actual high could touch about 6.7 ft. LJAC1 had E 60–90° at 2.6–3.1 m/s (~5–6 kt) from 5:24 to 6:18a. NWS hourly holds E 5 mph (~4 kt) through 9a, calm at 10a, W 5 mph by 11a, then NW/W 10 mph (~9 kt) from 1p. If you miss dawn, PB Drive on the drain around 12:30 to 1:30p is a soft backup on the Anvil twin before the NW fills. Sunrise 6:50a, sunset 6:19p.

SKIP

Little Point after about 8:10a, when the flooded tide goes over its ceiling, and again in the afternoon when it falls toward L 0.1@5:47p with onshore NW. Everything from 8:30a to noon while it is flooded. Calumet, Tourmo, and PB Point on this high. The Cliffs and OB. Anything after 2p once NW/W ~9 kt fills in.

GOTCHAS

Little Point is a shallow reef with a tight takeoff, so it crowds fast and the rocks show as it drains. High rip current risk today (NWS SRF) with sets to 7 ft. Coastal Flood Advisory through 2p: the 10:33a high is running about a foot over the table, so the stairs and seawall may be wet. The 46258 period just dropped from 18s overnight to 14s at 6:26a, so expect long lulls between sets.
